

Assessing and supporting working memory in children: the role of attention and the environment

Edward David John Berry

Submitted in accordance with the requirements for the degree of

Doctor of Philosophy

University of Leeds

School of Psychology

September 2017